SCFD survey released to help highlight pandemic economic impact for arts and culture, holiday giving campaign launches

Your organization's participation in this fall's survey of SCFD funded organizations allowed the SCFD to lift arts, culture and science organizations in the public conversation about the impacts of our national health emergency. Following the release of the data, public and corporate sponsors launched a holiday giving campaign to encourage support for arts and culture organizations during the holiday gift giving season.

Resources for Good

A NOTE FROM THE DENVER ZOO: Help us celebrate our 125th Birthday!

In our 125 years, we've been fortunate to partner with many of the artists, entities, individuals and organizations that make the Mile High City one of the country's most creative and colorful cities. We are seeking colorful collaborations with SCFD partners to celebrate wildlife during 2021. We invite you to put on your thinking caps and submit your ideas. No idea is too wild—we ARE a zoo, after all. Let's make something great together!

How to Participate:

1. Decide how/when you'd like to celebrate wildlife and participate in our 125th anniversary
2. Visit: <https://Denverzoo.org/cultural-arts>
3. Fill out the form by 12/31/20
4. You will be contacted by 1/31/21

Colorado Gives Day is Dec. 8

Colorado Gives Day is happening soon and is a great opportunity for organizations to use collective momentum built by the day to support their fundraising. Donations scheduled for organizations now will be boosted by the $1 Million Incentive Fund. SCFD job board can help you connect with jobs and job seekers in the creative sector

The SCFD supports connections between job seekers and arts, culture and science organizations looking for qualified applicants. Even with pandemic challenges, organizations across the creative spectrum are hiring and qualified individuals are looking for opportunities. You can check out available jobs or post openings at your organization.

Share your free days!

We want to help connect your organization with the community. One way we do this by highlighting free days on our calendar, the most popular spot on our website. We are rebuilding this free days calendar due to changes brought about by the pandemic. If your organization has been able to continue these special events, we'd love to share them.
